

Hermitage

The Hermitage was originally the home of Michael Hoy, a successful late eighteenth and early nineteenth century merchant trading mainly with Russia, and was originally built in 1813.

Hermitage barn has been beautifully converted with a large open plan living area featuring a large dining table, sleeping up to 10 people. This gives you the chance to share this holiday experience together and not miss a thing. The largest bedroom has a floor to ceiling glass screen which gives fabulous views over Niton village.
